Re: Mad Comedian's Blockchain

Issued by: Coaches 101 A NJ Nonprofit

Date: July 15, 2025

In response to recent, false claims implying misuse of funds tied to the "Mad Comedian's" Blockchain, Coaches 101 A NJ Nonprofit is releasing the full financial ledger and receipt trail for public review.

This document details:

- Total Expenditures via Shopify (over $359.88)
- Transaction- Invoice Tally
- Transaction—Receipt Tally ($17,545.70)
- Transaction—Tax forms

This audit-quality documentation confirms that no funds were embezzled, misused, or overpaid to any individual, including Mad Comedian or Omar Dyer. All activity complied with nonprofit accounting standards – as a part of the Profit-Sharing Program and was directed toward the stated mission of the campaign: to promote arts and media access through Meme Art initiatives from 2021 to 2024.

What is a Traditional Ticket?

Traditional tickets have long been the standard for entry to events, be it concerts, sports games, theater, or festivals. These are typically physical paper tickets or digital barcodes delivered via email or an event app. Key characteristics include:

- Physical or digital form: A printed piece of paper, a plastic card, or a PDF/QR code sent electronically.
- Centralized issuance: Distributed and authenticated by the event organizer, box office, or an authorized ticketing platform.
- Transferability: Often limited or restricted; resale might not always be secure or permitted.
- Authentication: Verified at the entrance, usually via barcode or manual check.

What is an NFT Ticket?

An NFT (Non-Fungible Token) Ticket is a digital ticket stored on a blockchain rather than on a centralized database. It represents a unique, verifiable proof of entry to an event—using blockchain technology for authentication and ownership. Here's how it differs from a traditional ticket:

- Blockchain-based: The ticket exists as a unique digital asset (NFT) on a blockchain, which acts as an immutable public ledger.
- Digital ownership: The NFT ticket is owned by the purchaser's digital wallet, ensuring clear proof of ownership.
- Security and authenticity: Each ticket is unique and cannot be duplicated or counterfeited; authenticity can be instantly verified online.
- Easy transfer and resale: NFT tickets can often be transferred or resold peer-to-peer via the blockchain, sometimes with built-in royalties for creators or organizers.
- Programmable features: NFT tickets may include perks like exclusive digital art, unlockable content, or future event discounts, all coded into the ticket's smart contract.

Key Differences Between NFT and Traditional Tickets

Feature	NFT Ticket	Traditional Ticket
Form	Digital asset on blockchain	Physical paper/plastic or digital PDF/QR
Verification	Blockchain authentication	Barcode/manual check
Security	Cannot be forged or duplicated	Potential risk of duplication or counterfeiting
Transferability	Peer-to-peer, often globally	May be restricted or limited
Extra Features	Can include unlockable content, royalties, collector value	Typically does not include extra digital perks
Ownership	Recorded in buyer's digital wallet	Physical possession or email/app account

Conclusion

NFT tickets offer greater security, traceability, and flexibility compared to traditional tickets. While both grant access to an event, NFT tickets leverage blockchain technology to prevent fraud, enable seamless resale, and provide new interactive features for attendees. However, they require a basic understanding of digital wallets and blockchain use, which may be new for some buyers. As technology evolves, NFT tickets are poised to transform the event experience for organizers and participants alike.
